

Brandon Block

- 15 days ago

As i continue my thoughts made manifest i have had the epiphany that today tgis morning days after easter 2015 that through the 4 years of learning the ins and outs of life that my coaching, self and others has come to the forefront again, and might i say a few things to begin:

when one awakens from the sleep of the night or anything indebth for a period of time, shall we not feed and give notice to the spectacular wonders of our dreams and visions set in our soul-spirit before the induldgents of physicall matter-fuel that we have come to know as food-for-the-body.

see i have wrote what i have learned and experienced as saw and taught to my friends and family through the years. And now i have become that which i ponder: when i awoken from my sleep i have reckonized that i have written slates of prayers, motivators, success-starters that directly focus the mind body and soul right from he beginning: giving a position to one's self that they/we/i am divine in my body, answerig questions that were not asked but needed to be known, the wonder of the simple fact that i have accomplished a written paper, and forwarded my talents to strangers allover the globe, i can only imagine my little pain of disbelief or any amount of doubt, vanish.

I become engulfed in the fact that my mind stretches the feild of memories, wants, and needs, and find myself looking into the prayers that God has wrote through my hands-made-flesh.

I am taken to that place that i had wrote of, i am shown the expansive glory of all that I Am.

